TOM DASCHLE: Former senator and architect of President Obama's healthcare plan, he is an outspoken advocate for reform, and a well-connected voice between the healthcare industry and Washington policy-makers. His book, Critical: What We Can Do About the Healthcare Crisis, offered exciting new solutions to changing America's healthcare system, and provided a detailed explanation of the framework for Obama's plan. In his new book, Getting It Done: How Obama and Congress Finally Broke the Stalemate to Make Way for Health Care Reform, released in October 2010, he reveals how Obama and Congress broke their stalemate to create a new healthcare system, and how this plan will be implemented in the coming years. Most recently Daschle co-wrote the book Crisis Point with Senator Lott.

TRENT LOTT: Senator Lott represented the people of Mississippi in Congress for 35 years and is one of a handful of officials to have held elected leadership positions in both the House of Representatives and Senate. During his 16 years in the House and 19 years in the Senate, he worked closely with seven presidential administrations and was regarded as a savvy coalition builder and dealmaker. He is also the author of two books, including 2016's Crisis Point: Why We Must - and How We Can - Overcome Our Broken Politics in Washington and Across America, which draws on his political experience to suggest a solution to Washington's increasing partisanship.
